

G-Core/Commend

Advantages:

- Intercoms, emergency call pillars or light barriers of the Commend system control the image switching and recording of the video management system G-Core.
- Recognition of which paging station is connected to which other paging station for mutual connection of live images.
- Alarm activation of camera images when an emergency call button is pressed.
- Control for opening doors or barriers can be made from G-Core.

Video images effectively complement the intercom systems of the manufacturer Commend - in entrance areas of all industries, in car parks and many other public areas with emergency call systems and much more.
